chaser of pre-posit excipences, since determined the outer harbor, our agentla.

On the arrival of any of our ships in the outer harbor, we immediately dispatch an agent on board, to give prepaid passengers the necessary instructions regarding their route westward.

Bedding and utueslis for eating and drinking, must be provided by passengers; and those going to the Canadas, or Western Stales, must furnish their own provisions from Faston. or Western States, must furnish their own provisions from Boston.

TRAIN & CO., of Boston, inform those who take an interest in the writter of immigrants, that as owners of the our LIVERPOOL and BOSTON LINE of PACKETS, they have determined that their immigration business shall be conducted in their own name, on their own responsibility, and by themselves or their immediation business shall be conducted in their own name, on their own responsibility, and by themselves or their immediation business. In calling public attention to the subjoined hist of the Ships which comprise our Boston Line of Bostets, we believe that its general reputation as the first of American Lines is sufficiently well known and catabilisted. The Thousands of Letters which have been sent by American Immigrants to their friends in every part of Europe, have borne simple testimony to the superior Heath, Comfort and Sately which here Passengers have hitherto experd. Many of them will be recognized as weeks which have gained the rery highest character, by a succession of unusual rapid passages.

It is a dull day on which some topic or incident of an excitable nature does not transpire to afford food for conversation, or the pen, in this infenced city; yet it is not extraordinary that much happens of interest, even of a public nature which comes to the knowledge only of a few.— Life here is like a battle, a general scrimmage, in which the actors are too much engaged to know perfectly all that is going on around them. I have often thought and think it true, that outsiders are the best informed of facts, though not so well posted up with regard to the exact impression they create here. Gossip, in the rural sense of the word, of course, is unknown, and nothing except gross violations in private life, as a general thing, reach the public ear, and then thro' the press, and it is sad to know that such instances re all too frequent, indicating the vast amount of iniquity that must prevail below the surface even in that sphere which the facetious call " upper tendom." Luxury and fashion must ever be

What s called "the Broadway tragedy" occasions at present much excitement. There you have the story in a nut-shell, tho' the details perhaps would be more interesting to your readers.

Another Dr. of "wahpene" notoriety has got into a sad scrape all thro' shooting a Sheriff, thro' a door ; one or two pistols, shot guns &c., and their contents put thro' the panels by the spunky medical man, and it is a wonder that the servant of the law was not riddled like a sieve in the operation, but death avoids a brave man in the path of duty, and he was only shivered a bit by the shower of falling wood work about him. #### THE SAN FRANCISCO.

was who shot this last "Wm. Patterson" is now the great mystery with all, and which the law is at present trying to elucidate. The Dr. was atter a gay man, and has been occasionally before the public in rather an unenviable way in that capacity. A recent introduction of his into social life up town, eventually disturbed the domestic felicity and harmony of a Mr. Hays, whose wife finally quitted her own Flays, whose wife finally quitted her own roof for the Doctor's. Mr. H. can't stand this, of course, and justifiably becomes a victim to the green monster—a quarrel all round is the upshot, 30 other passengers. The crew numbered from 100 to 150 is o that, all told, we were between 750 and 800 souls on board.

On Wedrasday morning the steamer dropped down to the Quarantine and anchored for the night. On Thursday, the 22d, after having been detained two or three hours waiting for a dilatory officer, sho weighed anchor about 10 o'clock and stood out to sea. At 12 passed Sandy Hook and discharged our pilot.

Friday morning, the 23d, rose brightly on our course. We had entered the Gulf Stram, and tha weather, which yesterday had been chilly, and caused the lacies and children to gather about the stove, had become mild. The wind still from the northwest, with sea enough to cause dinner table to be comparatively deserted. The day passed without incident of any kind, and gave no presage of the awful disaster 20 soon to follow.

Immediately after tea I retired to my room, and after reading two hours as quietly as if on shorej undressed and retired. There was more roll to the ship then I had previously experienced, and the wind seemed fresheaing; but I thought uothing of it. But I soon found there was no sleeping. It soon olow a gale. The ship rolled and pinched to a degree that it was difficult to keep my berth. All the books and loose articles upon the table, were thrown to the floor. Every articles in the room, though confined, was thrown in an alarming manner.

At 11 o'clock I could bear it no longer. I rose, creasing.

About 1 o'clock the foremast came down over my head, crushing in the burtionn deck. I almost feared now that the deck would be swept

Juneito,

A few moments had elapsed when I reached the saloon. It was filled with water to the depth of nearly two feet. The females and children, mostly in their night clothes, and wet to the skin, were scattered on planks: some waiting and sobbing, some apparently stupefied, and some calmily awaiting what seemed their inevitable fate. All supposed the last hour had arrived, and in a few moments they would meet their Maker face to face.

"Then rose from sea to sky the wild farewell— Then shricked the timid and stood still the brave."

Happy those who, in this awful moment, felt Happy those who, in this awful moment, felt that their peace was made, and nothing left but calm resignation to their Maker's hand. But Death is the King of Terrors, and when he meets us in the midst of life, with our bouses full of marrow and our limbs full of sap, human nature clings to life, and even the instinct of the dumb animal shrinks from death. The dream of poor Clarence came over me, and I thought—" Alas! it is a fearful thing to drown."

Another sea like that which struck us and our fate had been that of the President—not a soil would have survived to tell the tale. But it pleased a merciful and allwise Providence to say to the sea, "Hitherto shalt thou come, and no further, and here shalt thou rome, and no further, and here shalt thou ways be stayed." It is a day which will ever live in my memory. By toon the work of disembarking and course. Every man, woman and child had left the ship. Our captain was the last on board. He saw overy officer, every fareman, and every negro waiter, our when there were forty or fifty, safely in the boats it has lower than the raging billows of that angry sea, five hundred miles from the nearest shore, one would have been but little better dependence than the other.

After the first butst of dismay was over hope began to revive in our bosoms. The hull was still staunch and strong, and some passing ressel might. Another sea like that which struck us and ou its curling crest toward us, seemed about to pour into our shattered deck and sink us.

It was not so to be. We were in imminent darger of foundering; but our gallant and undaunted commander, Capt. Watkins, whose exertions during all that fearful night had been almost superhuman, directed all his energies to save us. To lighten the ship and stop the leaks were the first objects. To break up the hatches and commence discharging cargo, was the work of a moment. Soldiers and sailors all lent a helping hand, and as each men knew he worked for his life, all worked with a will. Stanchoons were placed under the broken deck, and it was partially forced back to its place. It was found that the water gained upon us rapidly. The steam pump had become obstructed. Fifty soldiers were detailed to commence bailing. All day and all night the work went on without intermission. Still, with every roll the ship took in large quantities of water, and we gained little upon the leak.

Sun, wan every roll the ship took in large quantities of water, and wo gained little upon the leak.

Sunday marring, the 25th, the day of the nativity of our blessed Saviour, at last dawned upon us. The sky lighted up a little; there was a short gleam of sunshine, and the sea calmed a little. A sail or two were seen in the distance, but none approached us. It was a gloomy Christmas to us. The work of bailing and pumping went on, and we had gained on the leak. Monday, the 26th, the gale continued with little abatement. All night Sunday the tempest roared round our devoted ship. The waves thundered against our sides and stern like cannon at the gates of a beleaguered city. Sleep was out of the question. For three nights we had had none. We discovered a sail not far off. On approaching us she proved to be a brig; we apoke her. She reported herself short of provisions, and after supplying herself with barrals of beef and pork we had thrown overboard she went on her way.

On Sunday, the 27th, discovered another sail bearing down upon us. She proved to be the bark Kilby, of and for Boston, from New Olreans, loaded with cotton, 35 days ont. By authority of Col. Gates, commanding the detachment, she was chartered for Government to convey the troops to the nextest accessible post. Thesday was too rough to disambark any part of the command, but on Wednesday, the 28th, Col. Gates and family, Maj. Merchant and family, Col. Burke, Captains Fremont and Judd, with their families, Drs. Sarterlee and Wirts, with some others whose names are not recollected, were safely embarked on board the Kilby. Some 40 or 50 soldiers, and some soldiers' wives, also embarked—in all nearly 100 persons. Night came on, and put a stop to any further operations. It had been agreed that the bark should lie by us till all on board the steamer was disembarked, but it came on to blow heavily in the night, and in the morning she had disappeared, and we saw her no more. Thus all the hopes of escape we based upon the Kilby were doomed to disappointment: a of fare became a sumptious repast. We attempted in issue it to the soldiers once a day, but a sufficient quantity of hot water could not be protured, and we were compelled to abandon it. On their miserable fare of bad biscuit and cold water it was not to be wondered that the poor soldiers siekened and died.

During the night of Friday, or the morning of Saturday the 31st, the cheering sound rang through the ressel that a ship was at hand. A light was discovered at the bow. We immediately commenced firing signal-gans. They were answered by blue lights from the strange vessel. When the toeming dawned we discovered a vessel with English colors. She came near enough to speak us, but the wind was so high as to renter it quite impossible. We resorted to a kind of telegraphic communication, by writing on boards with chalk in large letters. We succeeded unwith the deed, was sufficiently obvious. She promised to lie by us. This intelligence cheered every heart. bound for New York. The Bells had experienced much rough weather, and was leaky. On Tuesday crening we succeeded in putting a sorgeant and file of soldiers on board to work the pumps. On Wednesday morning, the 4th January, the work of disembarking commenced in earnest. The sick, of whom there was a large number, and some in a dying condition, were wrapped in blankets, brought on deck, and lowered carefully into the boats. Casks of water were lowered down and towed on board the Bells. Rread and Bagon, and other provisions were sent off. and Bacon, and other provisions were sent off. By evening much of the work had been accompliebed. It was found necessary, however, in consequence of the shortness of provisions on board the Bells, to divide our numbers between the two ships. Lieuts. Winder and Chandler, with about 140 soldiers, embarked on the Antarctic for Liverpool. Capt. Watkins also determined to accompany that portion of our number.— Tuesday morning, the 5th, rose upon us bright and beautiful. The sea was calm, the wind generated the season of the

After the first burst of dismay was over hope began to revive in our bosoms. The hull was still stanch and strong, and some passing vascal might rescue us from the wrack. Something whispered, "you are safe;" and after committing myself and those most dear to me to the Father of Mcroies, I felt at peace.

Accending the companion-way, from the saloon to the main deck, I sented myself at the head of the staircase, and surveyed the scene. The steam re was, in all her upper works, a perfect wreck.—Foremast, smoke stack, the greater part of the promenade deck, the saloon, and all the state rooms on the main deck was stove, and the water rusing in at every sea we shipped. On the opposite side of the companion way lay the mangled and bleeding corpse of a soldier, who was killed instantly by the falling of the deck. A few feet further lay on the dead of the deck and species of the dead of the companion way lay the mangled and bleeding corpse of a soldier, who was killed instantly by the falling of the deck. The Soule Dueis.

M. Gailiardet writes the Courrier des Etat Unis, a detailed statement of the unfortunate quarrel which Mr. Soule, our Ambassador to Madrid, and his son, have had with the French Minister at the same Court, and the Doke of Alba, a near relative to the French Empress.—M. Gailiardet's feelings are not on the side of Mr. Soule, but his account sufficiently establishes the fact that the provocation came from the other side. The history of the quarrel seems to have commenced even before Mr. Soule rechod Madrid. From the time of the reception of Mr. Soule, as American Minister, began to be agitated. M. de Turgot, the French Ambassador, and Madame de Mondijo, mother of the Duchess of Alba, showed little friendship for Mr. Soule,—Madama de Montijo is accused of having even intrigued to induce Queen Isabella to refuse to receive him.

Thus matters stood until the occasion of a fele or guand ball given, by the French Minister in honor of the birth-day of the Empress. All the foreign diplomatic corps were invited, and as a consequence, M. Soule, his son, who is also Secretary of Legation and Mrs. Soule were present by invitation. Mrs. Soule who is a handsome woman was dressed richly, but tastefuly dressed, and a Madrid paper states that she was queen of the hall, and her entrance produced a "sensation."

a Madrid paper states that she was queen of the hall, and her entrance produced a "sensation."
To destroy the favorable impression Mademe Soule had made, a spirit of hostile criticism was manifested by a coterie led on by M. de Turgot and Madame de Montijo. The Duke of Alba conseating to become the echo of the coteric, remarked as Mrs. Soule passed by—"Thero goes 'Mary of Burgandy." Toung Soule, heing close by heard the remark and immediately resented the odious entrage upon his mother, and applied an epithet of contempt to the Duke.
The parties were then seperated, but next morning young Soule sent to the Duke demanding an explanation of the insult to his mother. The Duke explained and apologised, and those acting under young Soule declared themselves satisfied.
But the public applanded the spirit of 'la jeune Yankee,' and the Duke was twitted on his lack of the old pride of his family. The quarrel was re-opened, and the Duke sont a challenge to retrieve his damaged homer. It was accepted and the proliminaries being arranged, a duel with swords was fought. The fight lasted twenty

Fr. Loris, September 20, 1853.

Dr. O. J. Wood—Sir :— I have used nearly two bottles of your Hair Restorative, and have found its effects very satisfactory. It has entirely destroyed all dandruff from my head and has restored my hair to its originateolor, which had become quite gray.

WM. TRUESDAIL. Daar Sir: Sy the advize of a friend of mine, who had been using your Hair Restorative, I was induced to try it, discovering, to my great astentialment, that my friend's hair, which, when I last saw him before, was very gray, had been completaly restored to its original color, lasting as fine glossy appearan. e as it had when I knew him twenty years ago.

I commenced using the Restorative about first weeks ago, and am perfectly convinced that it will produce the desired effect, it having restored the color of my hair, more than hair of which was white, to precisely the same it was when I was twenty rear old, with the same hear thy and glossy appearance. I have no hesitation in recommending it to my friends and the public generally, believing that if used according to directions they will not be disaposinted. Tours, very respectfully, Prof Wood—Dear Sir : "Dec you request me to give you a statement of the effects of your "Quiderful Restorative upon me, I cheerfully state, in reply, that : "The now used three bottles of it; and atthough my hair when I collimented three bottles of it; and atthough my hair when I collimented three bottles of it; and atthough my hair when I collimented that use was a slivery white (my age being skily-four) in one monthly attime it had resumed presidely into regime color and so perfect that my friends all thought I looked twenty years younger than trend, and escrety knew what they considered a perfect mirade, until I inform d them it was but the result of an in ention of your called Hair Restomative. I will also state that I was much troubled with dandruff and litching, particularly when in perspiration; but it only required three or four applications to remove all dandruff and litchings, and although my hair had fallen off until I was somewhat haid, I now have as fine a head of hair, both in color, sof-ness and barie, as I bad when but a youth, and quite as abundant. It is proper for not ostate that I commenced its use in Atquest Its; and used none since Jacumy. I have no doubt therefore but what the change is a permanent one; I can threefore recommend it as the most wonderful discovery of the age in which wellve.

The Editor said, Dec. 22d: "Dr. Hoofand's celebrated German Bitters, for the ewre of Liver Complaint, Jounding, Dryspesia, Chronic or Nervous Deijlity, is deserved by one of the most popular medicines of the day. These Bitters have been used by thousands, and a friend at our show says he has himself received an effectual and permanent cure of Liver Complaint from the use of this remedy. We are convinced that, in the use of these Bitters, the patient coastantly gains strength and vigor, a fact worthy or great consideration. They are pleasant in taste and smell and can be used by persons with the most delicate stomash with safety, under any circumstances. We are spenking from experience, and to the similated we advise their use." SCOTT'S WEEKLY.

It curres, when taken according to directions, in TWEN-TY MINUTES, leaving no fever after the Chill: very soldour requiring more than ONE DOSE to make a PERMANENT CURE. A great number of cases, from two to five years standing, have been CURED with the FIRST DOSE, and the Chill has never, as yet, returned. The beauty of this medicine is, that it stops the Chill in TWENTY MIN-UTES, or less, and the patient will be entirely clear from Fever after the Chill, which is not the case when any other medicine is used. It has superseeded all other preparations wherever it has been introduced.

End what the Editors of the Louisville Democrat say from their own observation:

Dr Urban's medicine for the cure of chills and fever has effected some wonderful cures in our own midst. A young man who has resided for several years in Louisiana, reached New Albany a few weeks since, weak and omneined—likerally worn out physically, with long continued chills and fever. He made a shoot stay at the house of Julge Smith, where his old disease continued with no less severity than at home in Louisiana Having exhausted almost every remedy known to the medical profession, he procured a box of Dr. Urban's eacherace medicine, and after taking two powders we entirely, relieved and restored to health. A.S. A TURIO HE DATURNA, it is unsurpassed. We do not place this cordial on a footing with quack medicines, and, as is customary, appendix long its of Hecommendation, Certificates, &o., beginning with "Hear what the Preacher says," and such like; it is not necessary, for "Henry's Invigorating Cordial," only needs a trial to prove that it will accomplish all we 447. THE GENUINE "HENRY'S INVIGORATING CORDIAL," te put up in 3 or Pannel Bottles, and is easily recognized by the Manufacturer's signature on the label of each Bottle, (to counterfeit, which is forgery,) as well as his private Scal on the cork of each Bottle.
